The ninth Dasp Lunch Seminar focuses on the topic of settlement research.

Four speakers will present different lenses of understanding settlements in China nowadays. In the pearl river delta, small towns on the urban fringe are forming a chaotic townscape under the influence of rapid industrialisation. However, along the Yangzi river delta, leisure requirements made rural areas, such as wuzhen, face authenticity change. Besides these transitions, the rights of the minority are being invoked. Building a playable city for children is the aim of many cities. Also, research on gardens in settlements will prompt a better living environment.
